A man with glasses and a white sweater is working in a greenhouse. He is holding a small plant in his hands. The greenhouse is filled with various plants, including leafy greens and herbs, growing in wicking beds. The structure is covered with a white plastic covering, and the interior is well-lit. In the background, a window shows a view of a green field and trees. To the left, there are several green pots on a shelf. To the right, there are yellow bags of soil or fertilizer on a table.
